Speakers - Day 1

Kate Scott, Nuffield New Zealand Chair

Kate is a 2018 Nuffield Scholar and is the current Chair of Nuffield New Zealand. Kate is also a director on the Board of Nuffield International.

Kate is an environmental consultant, having worked across a variety of industries, including dairy, sheep & beef, viticulture and horticulture. Kate and her husband own a small vineyard in Central Otago, but currently live in Wellington. They have recently relocated to take up new roles. Kate is now CEO at Horticulture New Zealand.

Kate's Nuffield research was focused on enabling better environmental outcomes in agriculture.

Speaker, Day One - Welcome

Christoph Graf Grote, Nuffield International Chair

Chris started his farming career in 1976 growing and packing vegetables for supermarkets in the UK and later became tenant farmer on the East Coast of Norfolk, where he lives.

He is a 1989 Nuffield Scholar, having studied "Poland and the Soviet Union - Are there opportunities for the UK Food and Farming Industry?" Following his study, he was the initiator and co-founder of the Nuffield Russia Trust, undertook numerous EU PHARE and TACIS projects involving Russia, Ukraine and most Central European countries and set up a farming tenancy in former East Germany.

In 1995 he founded, with two partners, what is today Top Farms International Ltd, farming some 85,000ha in four Central European countries and the UK. As then Spearhead International, it was sold in 2015 to a private equity fund. Chris has retired from farming, but continues to provide international and family business advice on agricultural acquisitions, restructuring, professional training and mentoring.

He is the current Nuffield International Farming Scholarships Trust Chairman. He is married to Ines and they have three adult sons with three grandchildren.

Speaker, Day One - Welcome

Speakers - Day 1

Hon. Damien O'Connor, List MP, Spokesperson for Trade, Land Information, Associate Foreign Affairs, Associate Transport

The Honourable Damien O'Connor is Labour's Trade and Associate Foreign Affairs spokesperson.

He is the former Government Minister of Trade and Export Growth, Minister of Agriculture, Minister for Biosecurity, Minister for Rural Communities and Minister for Land Information.

He was elected to Parliament in 1993 for the Labour Party as the Member of Parliament for the West Coast.

His background is in farming and tourism and he is a passionate advocate for rural communities and a thriving and successful agricultural sector.

■ Speaker, Day One - Welcome

Phil Morrison,
Facilitator for the Conference

Phil has been free-lance consulting since 2014. In recent years, Phil's work has included delivery of leadership development training, postgraduate business education, research projects, and facilitation of co-innovation workshops in a variety of contexts.

Phil is currently serving as a first-term councillor on Southland's regional council. This includes chairing a regional/local government working group responding to the challenges of a changing climate.

From 2011, Phil worked for three years as a Senior Lecturer for Massey University's Centre for Defence and Security Studies. In this capacity he delivered postgraduate education to mid-career military officers in both New Zealand and Brunei.

Previously, Phil enjoyed a 25-year career as an officer with the New Zealand Army. Highlights included command of an Engineer Regiment, a posting as Military Attaché to the NZ High Commission, Canberra, and a year studying in Singapore. Operational deployments to Cambodia, East Timor, and Iraq, as well as exercises in various Pacific Island nations, also hold fond memories for Phil.

Having grown up on a sheep farm in Eastern Southland, Phil remains connected to the farming industry through his farming family, engagement with rural issues at regional council, and various rural-facing contracts in recent years.

The Jim Geltch Award - Best Nuffield Report

The Award Winner and Honourable mentions announced at the Welcome Dinner, opening night, Saturday 8 March.

Nuffield International (NI) was formed in 2011. Jim Geltch, as CEO of Nuffield Australia (NA) during the time that the proposal to form NI was taking shape, took on the de facto role of the administration of this process.

Between 2011 and 2016, Jim managed both the role of Nuffield Australia CEO and Nuffield International CEO to build the capacity and funding of the fledgling NI organisation.

In 2016 he retired from his role with NA to focus solely on his work with Nuffield International. He believed passionately that Nuffield is a vital organisation in world agriculture that has enormous growth potential, and that NI as an umbrella organisation, is needed to see Nuffield grow while staying true to the foundational vision and values.

In recognition of his contribution, The Jim Geltch Award for the Best Report of the Year will be instigated from 2024 onwards. The Award is open to all reports from any country submitted during the calendar year (to 30 November).

The top report of 2024 will be announced at this CSC. An engraved trophy will be given to the country executive to take home for their winning scholar. The biography of the winning scholar will be published on the NI website with a link to their report, and appropriate Nuffield International social media.

Each country will be responsible for submitting their top report for the year by 30 November each year. They will be sent to the Nuffield International office for distribution to the judges. The judges then judge the submitted reports by 31 January each year using formulated judging criteria, as follows:

- Impact and wider potential
- Knowledge and consideration of the subject
- Structure and readability.

Winner announced, Day One - Welcome

Speakers, Session Leads - Day 2

Jodie Redcliffe, CEO Nuffield Australia/Nuffield International

Jodie has been CEO since March 2019. Prior to this, she held positions within the chicken industry, and most recently as the President of the Australian Chicken Grower Council.

Jodie was also President and Executive Officer for QLD Chicken Growers Association and sat on the Australian Chicken Meat Federation, the industry's peak body.

Jodie and husband Wayne operated a commercial broiler farm for 27 years before purchasing their dream property in Northern NSW, with an Angus breeder operation and agritourism venture.

Jodie is a 2013 Scholar who focused on consumer perceptions and pressures facing the poultry industry. She has been Nuffield Qld State Chair, a member of the Programmes Committee and foundation host of the Japan GFP; a role that allowed her to combine her passion for speaking Japanese with her interest in continuous agricultural learning.

- Speaker, Day 2 - History of Nuffield
Session Lead, Day 9 - GFP

Steve Kearney, Chief Mental Health Officer NZDF, Registered Clinical Psychologist

Steve joined the NZDF in 2000, having completed an MSc in Psychology at Canterbury University. After qualifying as a psychologist he went on to serve in a diverse range of roles including direct support to units and service members, training, support to operations and in command roles.

He deployed operationally throughout his career, including to Timor Leste, the Solomon Islands and Afghanistan. He has also participated in a number of international research working groups, and was part of award winning projects on resilience and training for high risk occupations.

Steve is a chartered Organisational Psychologist, a Registered Clinical Psychologist, and a graduate of the United States Marine Corps Command and Staff College.

After leaving the regular force in 2015, he worked in the public and private sector. In this time he continued to serve as a reservist, helping to develop mental health doctrine and training. Steve is eager to make a contribution to the Mental Health of kiwi's, and is passionate about: early identification and support for mental health, the relationship between work and mental health, how mental health might be better tailored to different cultures and contexts, such as the primary sector.

Key projects include improving NZDF's mental health systems and processes, developing the primary care mental health skills, and promoting a mental health system that is flexible to the needs of the community.

- Session Lead, Day 2 - Te Whare Tapa Whā and Resilience. The week and year ahead

Session Leads - Day 3

Russell Pickering, The Pickering Group

Russell is one of New Zealand's leading specialists in effective communication, business storytelling and presentation training.

Prior to founding The Pickering Group, Russell ran Auckland based communication skills consultancy SpeakEasy and established himself as an expert trainer, facilitator and coach in the field of business communication skills development.

He has helped thousands of people, in some of New Zealand and Australia's most visible organisations, become more confident and compelling communicators.

Russell thrives in the dynamic intersection of the arts and commerce. Originally training as a professional actor and director, Russell won a Bob Hope Scholarship to study for his Master of Fine Arts in Acting at Meadows School of the Arts (SMU) in the United States. As an actor he has appeared in commercial television, feature film, and on regional theatre stages throughout the US and NZ.

■ Speaker, Day 6 - Presentation from NZ's Chief Trade Negotiator

Hamish Marr, 2019 Nuffield NZ Scholar, Special Agricultural Trade Envoy

Hamish Marr is a mixed arable farmer from Methven in the South Island. The 500 hectare family farming operation has a focus on herbage and cereal seeds as well as traditional grain crops, some vegetable seeds and a mix of sheep and dairy support.

In 2023 Hamish took up the role of Special Agricultural Trade Envoy. This is a conduit role as the voice of the New Zealand farmer, working alongside our sector's market access teams and farmers to overseas governments and our international trade partners.

The role is international facing and relationship based. The Special Agricultural Trade Envoy speaks to our agricultural situation, our systems and seeks opportunities for the sector. A critical part of this role is feeding back to our industry at home the opportunities but also the issues and how we should react as food producers.

Outside of farming Hamish has been involved in Federated Farmers, the Foundation for Arable Research, named small seed grower of the year for 2022 and received a Syngenta Growth Award 2023.

In 2019 Hamish was awarded a Nuffield Scholarship and spent the majority of the year travelling the world studying agriculture, farming systems, the food system and how people fit in amongst it all.

■ Speaker, Day 6 - The Role of the Special Agricultural Trade Envoy

Sponsors, Session Leads - Day 7

Sally Thomson, Nuffield Brazil Executive

A Nuffield Brazil Executive Sally has 20 years of experience working with farmers in Australia and Brazil, turning ideas into action through facilitation and project coordination.

She grew up on her family's grains and sheep farm in Woodanilling, Western Australia and has been living in the Bahia state in Brazil since 2014 on a vertically integrated, irrigated dairy farm with her partner and their two young children.

Her connection with Brazil started in 1997, when she lived in Auriflama-SP for one year as Rotary Youth Exchange awardee.

She is the founding Nuffield Brazil Executive Officer, actively developing Nuffield opportunities for Brazilians and supporting Nuffield Scholars with contacts in Brazil – including coordinating the Brazil leg of the Global Focus Programme, and the 2017 and 2024 CSC in Brazil. Sally co-facilitated the 2014 CSC in Australia and 2016 in Ireland. Sally is a 2014 graduate of the Australian Rural Leadership Programme.

Bev Flatt, Global Partnerships Manager - Agriculture Advocacy and Activation, Bayer (Sponsor)

As a first-generation cattle farmer, Bev Flatt knows the challenges facing both the global agricultural industry as well as the grassroots needs of farmers and ranchers worldwide.

Bev is especially passionate about the next generation of agriculture and has used her experiences and platform to advocate for the industry from the US White House and EU parliament to urban gardening in Sao Paolo, and smallholder farmer training in Nigeria.

In her role at Bayer Crop Science, Bev works to drive farmers' voices in international agricultural policy development. She serves in leadership positions in multiple local and international organisations (e.g., Farm Bureau, SDSN, CEJA). Bev has been advocating for the industry, business, and customer for more than a decade.

Bev owns and operates a family farm in Hartsville, Tennessee. With her husband, she raises cattle, goats, chickens, and bees. Additionally, she creates value-added products for the farm, and gardens to sell produce at farmers' markets. Flatt Rock Farms is also a popular spot for school field trips and extension classes for new and beginning farmers.

Bev holds a B.S. in Agricultural Journalism from the University of Missouri, an M.Ed. in Agriculture and Extension Education from Tennessee State University, and a micromasters in Bio-Based Sciences for Sustainability from Wageningen University.

2025 Nuffield New Zealand Trust

NZ Rural Leadership Trust (The Rural Leaders Team)

Rural Leaders' Investing Partners

The New Zealand Rural Leadership Trust would like to thank the following organisations for their generous support.

CONFERENCE ATTIRE GUIDE

- Day 1 - Opening Dinner
'After 5' style. Cocktail dress or office appropriate dress with statement jewelry. Add a hand bag or heels. Men or women, your dressiest work/business attire.
- Farm visits
Tidy jeans or pants. Layers for top ideally, closed toe shoes or boots. Warm wind/waterproof layer in case of rain.
- Day 8 - Nuffield Games
Something comfortable and easy to move in. Sneakers.
- Conference days
'Business casual' style. What you wear to work e.g., skirt, tailored pants with blouse. Men or women, work blazer, dress shoes, collared shirt.
- Final Gala Dinner
'Beach Formal'. Flowy, floral, linens and lights. A formal summer dress, or pant suit. There won't be a beach, so heels are fine. For the men, light coloured chinos or suit pants, shirt long or short sleeved (could be linen).
